COMMON SENSE AND PLAIN DEALING

In 1998, Harry Kerbs created International Moving Services. His plan was based on personal experience and insight, and has proved successful. In the words of one writer: "Nothing astonishes so much as common sense and plain dealing." In Harry's own words:

"After many years in the moving industry, working with larger firms in Germany and Russia, I have learned what works and what doesn't. Large, unwieldy, bureaucratic firms are often ineffective, especially in Russia.

"I resolved to build a company that is always flexible, agile and quality-conscious - suited to the unique challenges of moving in Russia. Above all, the customer must be the focus of every decision, every action: This is the essence of IMS.

"Today, IMS continues to operate by the principles upon which it was founded, leading us to steady growth, stability and diverse service offerings. Excellent customer service from everyone on the IMS team, combined with a strong work ethic continues to work well for us - and, more importantly, for our long list of satisfied customers."

"I've worked with Harry for over 12 years. Harry is honest and upfront, proactive and easy to work with. I don't know anyone who cares so much about the details. If you've got a Russian move in your future, don't take chances. Move with IMS. They really are the best."
